The tourist destination "Ibagué" is a territory that is in the Central Cordillera of the Andes, between the Combeima Canyon and the Magdalena Valley, it has a generous green environment that climbs up to form the entrance to the National Natural Park of the Nevados (snowy peak), that is the reason why it has become a permanent attraction visited by fans of adventure, bird watching and gastronomy.

Ibagué is also a place of great industrial and commercial vibrancy, in which the textile and clothing production is most prominent. Nowadays its economic growth is based on the recent appearance of countless shopping centers, hotels, cafes, restaurants, which fuse the quiet life of an intermediate city, into local and foreign flavors, distributed in territory where its permanent cultural activity and entertainment offers multiple possibilities to its visitors.

In Salado you will find an important gastronomic offer in the wide area of foods that can vary between typical dishes such as the exquisite Lechona Tolimense, Tamales, Masato, Chicha, Sancocho de Chicken, Achiras, and Corn Parcels, as well as other typical dishes of our country.

When visiting Salado and one must not miss the opportunity to be on the eco-tourist farms, which bring together part of our history and heritage; crystal clear waters, which surround recreational places, and the pure air of the countryside, make recurrent always the preservation of the natural resources which are found there.

If what you want is a cool and cozy atmosphere, 30 minutes from Salado is the Corregimiento (village) San Bernardo 12, which has a pleasant architectural landscape, as well as a cultural proposition, in which the hiking, the bird watching, and the enjoyment of its cuisine stand out.

Combeima Canyon

Combeima canyon is the main source of water of the municipality of Ibagué, the name has a history that comes from the Spanish conquest. Initially the natives of the region named it Cutucumay, which means gold, because of the gold deposits in the region. The present name of Combeima River derives from cacique, which lived on its shores during the time of the conquest.

The canyon has an unequal landscape as you progress, it gives the opening up to magnificent natural sites, striking ranches, hamlets and veredas (an administrative sub-division of a municipality), and as a great closure, they present us the majestic snowy peak of Tolima (5,250 meters above sea level).

This vast territory is a suitable place for different activities like eco-tourist hiking, horseback riding, bird watching, flora and fauna, extreme sports, cable car rides, gastronomy of traditional dishes, desserts and sweets which are at your daily disposal and made by artisans for its visitors.

Getting to know the paramo ecosystem and its icy slopes, it's a great experience. If you are an amateur, we highly recommend the western slope by the thermal path of the canyon. It takes 6 days if using horses for rucksack loading between El Valle de Fraltilomas and the panoramic views of Los Nevados Natural Park.
